The story to which Mr. Roosevelt referred appeared originally in the Secolo XIX., of Genoa, and was repeated in special dispatches to Paris and to the United States. Colonel Roosevelt used the Imperial court carriage placed at his disposal by Emperor Francis Joseph until his official calls had ended. Then he discarded it for the faster mode of travel—the automobile.

He entered the exhibition at the riding school, where the celebrated Lippizzan breed of horses, a mixture of Spanish and Arab blood, performed the daintlest of evolutions, dancing the quadrille and finally coming on to the platform, where Colonel Roosevelt sat, and circling his chair so close that their hoofs almost touched his feet.
